Fees and Charges

The Australian Government pays for the bulk of aged care in Australia, but you will be asked to contribute to the cost of your care, if you can afford to do so. There are three types of fees – daily fee, means tested fees and accommodation payments.

Basic daily fee: This covers living costs, and all residents pay this daily fee. This fee is set at around 85% of the single aged pension and is currently $54.69 per day. This fee will be adjusted twice a year, along with adjustments to the pension rate.

ACCOMMODATION AND PRICING SCHEDULE – 1 April 2022

Means-tested care fee: This is an additional contribution towards the cost of care that some people may be required to pay. The Department of Human Services will work out if you are required to pay this fee based on an assessment of your income and assets and will advise you of the amount.

Accommodation payment: Some people may need to pay an accommodation payment depending on an assessment of income and assets. This is in the form of a lump sum (refundable accommodation deposit) or daily payment (daily accommodation payment) or a combination of both.

Accommodation Options
